Now With F.M.L.

There are genuine reasons why differences cannot be overcome and there are genuine differences which can be overcome because reason has nothing to do with it.

NOW-NOW-NOW

Watching friend James Brock pour a couple of bronze casts the other night, the question of temperature came up.

It takes about 4,000 degrees f. to heat the bronze to a point it will pour for casting.

James said something like "those cats 5,000 years ago must have known a lot about fire to get one hot enough to do what we're doing here."

He was referring to a whole era in history, almost pre-history which was called the Bronze Age. Steel was undiscovered and bronze, the same stuff James casts his Western figures with, was used for weapons, shields, armor, whatever utensils needed in peace and war. It is a mixture of copper, tin and other soft metal elements.

How did they get a' intense flame without benefit of pressure controls, thermostats, electric fans, piped natural gas?

One can only surmise they used one tremendous bellows that would make the classic blacksmith's bellows look like Puff, the Breeze in the midst of a hurricane.

NOW-NOW-NOW

James' success to date is because he is real. Despite considerable exposure over the past five years around and outside Texas, he is substantially the same man who started in his early 40s on this career.

He has grown in stature and sculpting skills, of course, but he still has as little for phonies and fair weather friends as I do.

He is worthy of support because he has been willing to lay aside any easy way and to try and "make a living" in art, which not only requires skill, but guts.

OOMPA BUNCH - "Der Sour Krauts" from Humble, Texas will be one of the groups performing during this year's Folk Fete scheduled for June 8 and 9.

Area Roundup

Hospital Bids Due Opening

ROCKDALE

Sealed bids for the construction of the proposed, new 47-bed Richards Memorial Hospital will be opened publicly on June 14 at 2 p.m. in the community room of the Rockdale State Bank. The call for bids climaxes weeks of intensive work between planners and the architectural firm, George L. Dahl, Inc. of Dallas. The board is hopeful that a contract with a contractor can be signed by late June.

Medical Ed Program OKed

TEMPLE

Texas A&M University got the green light to work with the Veterans Administration in setting up a new medical education program at Temple. Veterans hospitals at Temple, Waco and Marlin will help train medical manpower to relieve the shortage of doctors both inside and outside the VA itself. Approval came from the program development committee of the Coordinating Board of the Texas College and University System meeting in Dallas.

McGregor, Waco Head To Courts

McGREGOR

Cities of McGregor and Waco are headed to court late in June over Waco's contention that McGregor had no right to extend its city limits to include McGregor Airport. Last hope of avoiding a court battle vanished recently when W. C. Haley, representing McGregor, carried a compromise proposal to the Waco city council and was virtually ignored.

Urban Renewal To End

WACO

The city's urban renewal director told Waco city council that he was asking approval of probably the last project of the urban renewal in Waco. The council gave the agency its approval. The area is in East Waco, around the Paul Quinn neighborhood, along Elm Street in Clifton and adjacent territory.

Accident Leads To Another

SOMERVILLE

An accident at the high school seemed to set off another one, as a car rushing to get a doctor for a student injured in a PE class, collided with another car on the way. No one was injured in the second accident and the student was taken to the hospital and treated for concussion and lacerations in the mouth. He was a victim of a collision while trying to catch a football pass.

Commissioners Challenged

GEORGETOWN

Rosamond McClain, wife of a Georgetown attorney, has challenged the County Commissioners Court to "grow as your job has grown" and urged them to devote a portion of Federal Revenue Funds to humanitarian purposes. She appeared before the commissioners at their last meeting in an unsuccessful effort to secure financial aid to preserve Head Start and Family Planning programs formerly funded by the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Glass Wins Top Prize

ROSEBUD

Lester Glass was all smiles when he was the winner of a 1973 Ford Maverick during the May 18 spring concert. Over 8000 donations were sold for the car in an effort to collect $6,325 for new band uniforms. Enough money was raised during the campaign to pay for the uniforms. A benefit dance raised over $100, a benefit volleyball tournament at Lott brought in over $600, and there were several private donations to the fund.

The 1973 Folk Fete queen will receive a bouquet and trophy. The two runners - up each will receive a trophy.

Twenty-two Cameron businesses and individuals have agreed to sponsor pageant entries.

Folk Fete activities will get into full swing Friday, June 8. Featured will be the music, dances, food and customs of the German, Czech, Italian, Mexican, Negro, English and Irish pioneers who settled this Milam County agricultural center more than 100 years ago.

A downtown parade Saturday, June 9, arts and crafts show, fiddlers contest and domino tournament are other Folk Fete features.

The celebration will be held at the National Guard Armory.

Charles Kunz, chairman of the Folk Fete Board of Directors, predicted more than 10,000 persons will attend this year's celebration.

Two Housemothers Retiring To Buckholts, Cameron

MRS. EVELYN HEARNE

MRS. ANNIE OBERMILLER

Two Texas School for the Deaf houseparents who have mothered from 17 to 24 children a year for many years will retire the first week in June.

Mrs. Evelyn Hearne, a native of Ben Arnold, and Mrs. Annie Obermiller, a native of Buckholts, will be honored at Texas School for the Deaf awards ceremonies at 9:30 a. m., June 1, in Austin.

Mrs. Hearne, who has been at the school since 1954, mainly with children in the Valley cottages, will take back with her to her Cameron home many memories -- hikes, field trips, sports events -- and a photograph album.

She has a photograph of every child she has mothered over the years. Mrs. Hearne says she will continue to treasure both the pictures and the children.

She will be returning to a much-loved guest house which she had moved to 1501 N. Crockett when her huge, old frame house started crumbling and had to be dismantled by members of the family several years ago.

Mrs. Hearne's plans call for gardening, traveling, creating artistic needle pieces and seeing a good deal more of her family -- her mother, two daughters and their husbands, and five grandchildren. One daughter, Gloria -- Mrs. David Perkins lives in Cameron; the other, Marie -- Mrs. Robert Matthews lives in Fairfield. She also plans to participate in church work and serve as a visitor at a nearby hospital.

Mrs. Hearne was born and brought up on a farm in Ben Arnold. Her father, J. E. Arnold, not only

REACT Sponsoring Holiday Rest Stop

Milam County REACT Club is sponsoring a rest stop over the long Memorial Day weekend about two miles south of Cameron on Highway 36. The stop will be open from 5 p.m. Friday until midnight Monday, May 28.

As in previous years, REACT is undertaking a free "wake - break" from the hazards of holiday driving.

In other rest stops they served coffee, Cokes, and cookies to thousands of weary travelers with home addresses as far away as California, New York, Mexico City and the Philippine Islands.

But the stand is really more than a rest stop. REACT members, all Citzen Band radio operators, install a Citizen Band monitoring station at all their rest stops to help nearby travelers who find themselves in trouble.

Dozens of calls have come during previous rest stops for help in the form of gasoline and auto parts.

And beside helping stranded travelers and serving much needed coffee to voyagers, the rest stop gives local members an opportunity to explain REACT. Members who have manned previous rest stops say that one of the first questions asked by travelers is "what is REACT." The initials stand for Radio Emergency Associated Citizens Teams and the purpose of the national association is for teams to volunteer their assistance and provide two-way radio communications in local emergencies.

Hot coffee, cold Cokes and cookies will be handed out this weekend, with all motorists welcome to stop, have refreshments, and visit awhile.

Raymond Joins Ranks Of Eagle Scouts

Richard joined the troop in 1970, transferring from Troop 752 as a Tenderfoot Scout. He progressed through the ranks to Eagle in three years. In addition to his Eagle rank, he has held the position of assistant patrol leader, patrol leader and is now the senior patrol leader of the troop.

He attended leadership training at camp qualifying him for the senior position. Last year Richard went on a Canadian canoe trip for eight days sponsored by the Boy Scouts. He has been selected to the Order of the Arrow, an elite camping group of Scouts.

Ostpolitik For Us Too?

West German Chancellor Willie Brandt has completed trade deals with Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev which sustain Brandt's detente in Ostpolitik.

He has set an example of bridging monumental differences between East and West Europe that President Nixon sustained in historic deplomatic detentes with Peking and Moscow.

Brandt and Brezhnev have signed trade agreements which will increase or begin trade building to record percentages of both nations' productivity by 1980. This is a certain way to avoid pre-war conditions of 1914, 1939, 1950 and 1965.

Brandt's philosophic efforts toward peace won him the Nobel Prize a couple of years ago. These efforts are now taking on practical value in trade and in future diplomatic breakdown.

It is interesting how Brandt and Brezhnev first discussed these prospects. They sat down face to face, coats off and talked out the beginning of the end of Europe's Cold War.

Brandt was in Washington only recently to consult with President Nixon, whose trips to Moscow and Peking boosted these trade prospects between West Germany and Russia. Brezhnev is soon to visit Washington.

It is also interesting that the U. S. balance of payments were on the plus side for the first time in 18 months at the end of the past week. In the complex of international economics, the consummation of West German - Russian negotiation hardly detracted from an improved international trade picture for the U. S. It may be coincidence, but the near-record rise on the U. S. stock market followed the April balance of payments surplus and the Brandt-Brezhnev meeting. Inflation can now be our next economic target.

Ostpolitik also may be working for us.

Business Good...

It's good news to hear Milam County's, no, non-metro Central Texas' biggest employer say that "business was never better."

That's what Fred Bergeron, Rockdale Works manager, told a Cameron civic club the other day.

It's real news when we realize 185 people living here work there. If we had another plant employing that many people at those wages, we in Cameron would see a plant larger than those which contribute so much to the economy in the immediate Cameron area.

Following improved balance of payments for the U.S., the Alcoa executive's report on Rockdale Works is even more significant because bauxite comes from outside the U. S. to this plant as alumina. And Alcoa operates around the globe.

If things weren't as good as they are in Milam County, Texas, they would continue to run even at low ebbs because this industrial giant is based on so large a plane.

It is significant after 20 years here that Alcoa can be as enthusiastic about its Rockdale Works. Beside this industrial growth story, productivity through that plant rebuilt South Milam County and part of North Milam too.

farmed, but was known for miles around as the best "hoss doctor." He was one of the few practical veterinarians permitted to continue practice after the certification laws were passed.

Her uncle, Matt Bailey, was once a part owner and printer at The Cameron Herald.

Mrs. Hearne moved to Cameron to work in the 1940s when her husband was stricken with an illness 'he could not survive.

Mrs. Obermiller, who has been at Texas School for the Deaf for 14 years, has espcially enjoyed going on field trips with her charges, older girls for many years and then small boys for the past two. She also takes pleasure in their athletic pursuits.

"I can still run rings around the little boys," Mrs. Obermiller ("Obie") says. And she means it, too.

At the end of this school year, she will have many opportunities to run some rings around her two sons, six grandchildren and one great grandson. One son, Charles Obermiller, lives in Buckholts; the other, Lawrence, in Victoria.

She will be returning to her home on Route 1 in Buckholts. She was born and raised on a farm in Buckholts and, in turn, raised her sons there. She was left a widow in 1949 and in 1957 began serving as a houseparent, first at an orphanage in Round Rock and then at a home for delinquent children in San Antonio until she came to Texas School for the Deaf in 1960.

She plans, after she retires, to continue her favorite hobbies, sewing and gardening. Her love for gardening, both flowers and vegetables, dates back many, many years to the time she was assigned the farm chore of supervising the family vegetable garden. She has been delighted that she drew a chore that has proved as rewarding and held her interest for so long.

She says, "I will take home with me jillions of memories of TSD -- but mainly a smile here, a thank you there."

63rd Performance 'Mixed'

By Bill Boykin

The 63rd Legislature wound down at midnight Monday (May 28) with opinions sharply divided as to how much or how little it accomplished.

While new reform rules slowed down consideration of bills, much major legislation was passed, some of which had failed previously.

Both houses completed work on a record $9.7 billion, taxfree budget four days before adjournment, then with money left over, began to fashion an emergency aid bill for "poor" school districts.

The big job of revising school finance formulas, as anticipated, was left for a future session following additional studies and careful weighing of property values.

Legislative redistricting was another job left for the future -- possibly under court direction.

Lawmakers did manage to agree on a competitive auto insurance rate bill -- something they couldn't do in a special session devoted to that purpose alone last September - October.

They also came to terms on far-reaching revision of the penal code-- first in 117 years -- although the House bogged down on a court reform constitutional amendment.

House Speaker Price Daniel Jr. managed to get some of his reform measures, including open meetings law strengthening and better access to public records, finally passed. Agreement on a touch code of ethics was difficult.

While they were at it, legislators asked again for a pay raise -- to $15,000 a year -- and a constitutional amendment permitting them to meet in annual sessions to better handle an ever-increasing work load.

Whether or not they are called into special session this year, they will be back next January -- to have a try at revising the state constitution.

NEWSMEN'S MEASURE

The "free flow of information" measure -- called the newsmen's privilege bill -- died in a conference committee. Compromise language that might have been acceptable to both the House and Senate would have made it a "qualified" privilege for newsmen -- and it looked for a time that the conference committee was going to vote it out.

Publishers, editors and broadcasters told their legislators that they preferred "no privilege at all" if it could not be "unqualified" --and the conference committee members let it "R. I.P."

Representatives of the Texas Joint Media Committee -- members of professional press groups -- expressed disappointment that the Senate would not accept the original House bill -- which included no qualification except in cases of "libel or right of privacy" law suits.

Some felt the Watergate case had taken the "heat off the press" and fewer subpeonas would be issued in the future to obtain information from newsmen.

Unless Texas newsmen have problems with grand juries and the courts in future years, it will be difficult to get press support for a "newsmen's privilege" measure in this state, said Don Coppedge, president of the Texas Press Association.

GAS RATE SUIT FILED

Atty. Gen. John Hill filed the first big test case -- against Exxon Corporation -- to recover full market value of royalty gas produced on state lands for the school fund and University of Texas.

The suit alleges the state's price is not limited to amounts agreed to in contracts, nor to the low ceiling price set by Federal Power Commission.

Hill has estimated many millions of dollars rest on outcome of the litigation. Current FPC ceiling price is in some cases less than 20 cents per 1,000 cubic feet of gas, while actual market value is estimated at 45 cents per 1,000 cubic feet in recent sales.

The suit seeks to compel Exxon to pay the current market value or, alternatively, to allow the state to take its royalty gas "in kind" for use or resale. The state claims it is due not less than $500,000 from Exxon, and many other producers are expected to be made defendants soon.

LAND PROGRAM

One of the proposed constitutional amendments to be voted on November 6 would extend the veterans land loan program, pumping another $100 million (for a total of $500 million) into it.

Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong applauded submission of the new amendment to continue the low-interest, long - term loans for veterans to buy land.

About 43,000 veterans have acquired more than three million acres of land under the program since 1946 when it was launched.

COURTS SPEAK

A state law providing damage penalties for corporations that make illegal campaign contributions is consitutional, the State Supreme Court held.

The High Court agreed to rehear a controversy between the City of Austin and the local Humane Society over division of an estate over land left for a park.

Two Mineral Wells men were granted new trials in drug cases by the Court of Criminal Appeals because they were not permitted to testify on beatings by narcotics agents.

AG OPINIONS

Attorney General held a compulsory oil and gas unitization bill was constitutional, but the measure (HB 311) was killed in the Senate.

Hill found some questionable provisions in the senate's version of ethics legislation, but urged leaders to correct them and pass a constitutional bill.

A weekly public service feature from the Texas State Department of Health

Accent on Health

J.E. PEAVY, M.D., Commissioner of Health

The buzzing of bees is just as much a part of the active summer scene as picnicking, swimming, hiking, golfing and gardening. But this pleasant sound is also a warning of the possibility of painful bee stings.

Venom from honeybees, bumblebees, wasps, yellow yackets and hornets is -- drop for drop -- just as potent for certain susceptible persons as deadly rattlesnake venom.

Some health authorities believe that stings by these insects kill more people ir the United States than the feared rattler. One promient specialist suggests that some of the sudden deaths attributed to heart failure, or heat prostration, are in reality due to insect stings in susceptible individuals.

Many of the bee stings could be avoided with proper precautions. But most people do not seem able to cope with bees and other stinging insects. There are 822,000 nonfatal poisonings a year in the nation which result in one or more days of restricted activity or require medical attention, according to estimates of the National Center for Health Statistics.

Approximately one-half of the total are the result of a very common occurrence --bee stings -- which happen to be classified as poisonous.

Bees and other stinging insects usually do not attack humans. But they are attracted by vigorous activity, such as a group of playful children at the beach. So, if a bee approaches, don't aggravate it into action by trying to swat him; keep calm and walk away slowly. Perfumes, suntan lotion, hair spray and other cosmetics, bright colors and flower prints attract them. Use an insect repellent to temporarily keep stinging insects at a distance.

Persons who disturb nests of stinging insects by accident, or on purpose, may have to run for it. If the man-of-the-house decides to paint his home, spruce up his garden, or trim hedges and shrubs, he should look for hidden nests.

The unwary painter, especially if he is on a ladder, may be badly stung by angry wasps or bees. If there are nests, dislodge them with a long pole, making sure your fast escape is possible. Insecticide will kill the insects in the nests you knock down.

And, the thoughtul parent won't let children go barefoot until he examines the yard for possible below-the-ground nests of yellow jackets. If nests are found, pour kerosene into the hole in the early evening, when the insects have all returned.

If someone gets stung by a honeybee, use a needle, fingernail or knife blade to scrape the stinger out as soon as possible. Avoid pulling it out with your finger; this squeezes more venom into the body. Honeybees can sting only once. Bumblebees, wasps, hornets and yellow jackets can sting repeatedly.

Ordinarily, the only effects of a sting are temporary inflammation, pain and itching. Ice packs or a cold cloth will ease the pain. Cold cream, baking soda or a compress moistened with ammonia spirits, will relieve the itching.

Persons who suffer multiple stings or who are allergic to insect stings may develop serious reactions. They require medical attention at once.

Farm Bureau Head Says Tractor Fuel Is Vital

WACO

Texas Farm Bureau President J. T. (Red) Woodson on May 23 reminded the Texas delegation in Congress that tractor fuel is "absolutely vital" to the feeding of this nation and suggested possible ways of easing the fuel crisis.

Woodson said the Texas Farm Bureau is now surveying county leaders to find out the extent of the fuel problem in Texas.

"We are getting reports from around the state that harvest equipment and farm tractors are being idled due to a shortage of fuel," the state farm leader said in a letter. "This could be a foretaste of a chronic problem in the future."

Woodson told the Texas representatives and senators in Congress that people in agriculture regard the fuel shortage as one of the most urgent problems facing the nation. He added that farmers and ranchers are ready to cooperate in any way "that will enable us to continue supplying food to this nation."

He recommended that:

(1) Agriculture be given high priority for food production should rationing be necessary.

(2) Work on the Alaskan pipeline begin without delay. with reasonable regard for the environment.

(3) Independent oil companies and their customers be protected from a possible squeeze play by major oil companies.

(4) That price controls on petroleum products be lifted where they have discouraged exploration and production.

(5) Lifting of oil import quotas be continued and fees that discourage imports be ended.

(6) Action be taken to prevent labor tie-ups and strikes that threaten fuel production and delivery.

(7) Research be started on ways to safely ease pollution controls that could save fuel and permit production of more fuel supplies.

(8) The Federal government help pay costs of researching new ways to find, extract and use oil, gas and coal.

Poage Calls Admistration To Protect Farmers Fuel

WASHINGTON

Chairman W. R. (Bob) Poage, D-Texas, of the House Committee on Agriculture called on the Administration today to take all action necessary to make sure fuel shortages don't curtail farm production.

He made the call at the conclusion of a public hearing of the Committee at which witnesses testified of growing fuel demands and the effects on supply lines to farmers. Sen. Carl Curtis, R-Neb., was among those testifying and urging action.

Gasoline rationing to motorists, car pooling and conversion of oil-fueled electric generating plants to coal were among possible solutions discussed at the hearing. Chairman Poage, adjourning the inquiry, said:

"The hearing has made it abundantly clear that a serious shortage of fuel threatens to severely curtail crop production in the United States this year.

"I am disappointed that the Department of Agriculture did not see fit to have a representative testify on this problem. In fact, the testimony we did receive underscored the fact that there is no representative of the Department of Agriculture on the government's Oil Policy Committee. I think Agriculture should have a voice in formulation of this country's fuel policies, and I say this fully aware that there was a recent Presidential announcement that farm production should get top priority in allocation of fuel supplies."

"The burden of testimony received by the Committee is that energy demands in the United States will continue to grow. It also was made clear that every effort must be made, both on a short range and long range basis, to meet all agricultural requiements for gasoline and diesel fuels.

"The average American won't like inconveniences that gasoline shortages will impose on his motoring about our streets and highways; however, he will be much more seriously affected if fuel shortages limit crop production and thereby drive up the price of his food and clothing and simultaneously lower the quality of the products he consumes.

"This is certainly what happen if farm production is curtailed through an inadequate fuel supply.

"I call on the Administration to take stronger action to alleviate this crisis. I have serious doubts that any voluntary approach will give farmers, and consequently all American consumers, the help they need."

Alcoa Plans New Plant

PALESTINE

Aluminum Company of America today announced it has selected a site near Palestine for its first commercial smelting plant using the Alcoa Smelting Process, a revolutionary method of producing aluminum.

The process, revealed last January after 15 years of development at a cost of $25,000,000, reduces by as much as 30 percent the electricity required by the most efficient units of the Hall method, now used worldwide. Further, the Alcoa Smelting Process uses a system free of undesirable emissions and affords a superior working environment.

John D. Harper, Alcoa chairman and chief executive officer, said the beginning of construction on the multi-million dollar plant is contingent upon the company's promptly obtaining permits from governmental agencies and the completion of some transporation arrangements. The smelting plant, which will take about two years to build, will have initial capacity of 15,000 tons of primary aluminum a year with an ultimate goal of 330,000 tons annually. The 4000-acre site is about six miles northeast of Palestine in Anderson County.

Expansion, Harper said at a press conference, here, will dpend upon evaluations of construction and operating experience with the unit "and on market demand for the metal." Addition of a 300,000 - ton plant, he noted, would make Texas the top aluminum - producing state. Washington now ranks first.

The new smelter will be Alcoa's fourth production facility in Texas. Smelters at Rockdale and Point Comfort have rated capacities of 285,000 and 185,000 tons a year, respectively. The company's largest domestic bauxite refining facility is part of its Point Comfort complex. A plant at Marshall produces bare and covered aluminum electrical conductor.

Happening about Town

YARD OF THE MONTH awardees are Mr. and Mrs. Henry Litzman whose home on country Club drive is surrouned by low plantings of ever-green shrubs with seasonal potted plants added for color both in the front and in the patio area. The award is presented by the Fleur de lis Garden Club on the basis of landscape design, color harmony and over-all appearance.

Stage Set For Benefit Bazaar

St. Edward Hospital Auxiliary's Country Fair and Bazaar should be a shopper's delight with everything from home grown fresh vegetables to art-crafts and paintings for sale in a browse or buy out-door atmosphere.

The action will take place Friday, June 1, from 4 to 8:30 p.m. in the parking lot of the First Baptist Church.

Though Friday will be the big day for shoppers, the pre-Country Fair work has been in progress for several months. Mrs. Bill Burns, chairman for the event, said several hundred area women have been contacted and donations of their culinary, art or craft specialties have been promised.

Decoupage, needlework, handmade baby clothes and shawls will be principal items in the craft section along with many small handmade gift ideas.

In the food section, fresh from the oven breads, pies, cakes, pastries and candy will be offered for sale - all the work of Milam County's finest cooks. Other items to tempt the food shopper will be home-made salad dressings, pickles and preserves.

Mrs. Burns said they hope the fresh vegetable stand will rival the famed farmers markets with seasonal vegetables nurtured in area backyard gardens for sale. "Anyone with home-grown vegetables that they are willing to donate may bring them to my house Friday morning and we will package them for sale" Mrs. Burns said.

Proceeds from the Country Fair and Bazaar will be used to help pay the $10,000 pledge made by the Hospital Auxiliary to the St. Edward Development Fund.

Mrs. Burns said that in case of rain the Fair will be moved to the Methodist Fellowship Hall.

Officers For LL Auxiliary

Mrs. Carol Barr has been named president of the Cameron Little League Auxiliary and Mrs. Janice Turner has been named secretary-treasurer for the 1973 summer baseball program.

Psychology Students Biggest Worriers

Those are findings of a University of Texas psychologist, Joseph M. Horn, who made a study at UT Austin of the anxiety - proneness of college students from different fields.

Dr. Horn says his study indicates that persons gravitate to various disciplines because of certain personality traits. He hopes his research will interest persons concerned about the types of students attracted to certain professions.

ONION SHORTAGE

The greatest onion shortage in 50 years is easing up. Things are beginning to straighten out; as the spring crop is coming to market

However, estimates show the spring onion crop is down 9 percent from last year, so prices probably will remain above normal until the summer crop reaches the market.

The blame for the absence of the "rose of roots" from American dinner tables earlier this year lies chiefly with the weather and the rare coincidence of crop damage it caused in the number two and three onion-producing states -- Texas and New York. California is number one.

New York's crop is a main source of supply for all states in the East. Its product is the storage onion--the bright yellow pungent bulb usually in ample supply through the fall and winter.

The trouble in upstate New York began on June 18, 1972, last until June 23, and was called Agnes.

"The rains were so heavy," "that they physically washed out the soil and it was impossible to replant many of the same fields."

Tropical storm Agnes sliced New York's onion production in half -- and that alone was enough to reduce the whole U. S. crop by nearly 7 percent. In fact, January 1973 storage holdings in New York were 44 million pounds -- little more than a third of the 129 million pounds a year earlier.

Under normal conditions, onion - lovers might have looked to the 1973 early spring crop is South Texas to alleviate the March and April shortage. But this past winter brought cold weather and rain.

The result was a South Texas crop that was short and late, instead of surpassing 1972's production.

The combined result was the 'great onion shortage,' During the Korean War and World War II. Onion supplies were a little tight, but nothing like this.

Prices for onions at shipping point in the first half of April 1973 averaged $24.-90 for 100 pounds, compared with a previous record high of $10.20 in March 1948.

The American consumer's "Inelastic demand" for onions further complicated the problem. Even when supplies do not meet demand and prices are up, each of 210 million consumers still want their 13 pounds of onions each year. This includes onions consumed daily in vast quantities in America's network of restaurant and roadside chains, and onion products -- especially dried onions and french fried onion rings.

Marty Robbins Enters Race

COLLEGE STATION

Marty Robbins, one of the nation's most popular country and western singers, has confirmed his entry in the $100,000 Alamo 500 NASCAR Grand National stock car race set for Sunday, June 10 at Texas World Speedway.

Robbins, one of the music industry's busiest and most successful personalities, will drive a 1973 Dodge in the 500 mile event.

The popular singer competes as often as possible in NASCAR's major events and has earned the respect of the other drivers as being one of the fiercest competitors on the circuit.

Robbins began his racing career in the Late Model Sportsman division at Nashville (Tenn.) Fairgrounds Speedway, where he won his first stock car race in 1967.

For years, he would race on Saturday nights at Nashville Fairground Speedway and then rush to the Grand Old Opry in time for his numbers.

The latest entry pushed the number of hopefuls for the rich 500-miler to more than forty.

Entries have already been received from Richard Petty, Buddy Baker, Gordon Johncock, Bobby Allison, Cale Yarborough, and a long list of other outstanding competitors.

Qualifying for the forty starting spots is scheduled for Friday and Saturday with twenty positions being decided each day.

The start of the Alamo 500 is set for 1:30 p.m. on Sunday, June 10.

Canadians Hate Walking To Work

By Neil Harrison

TORONTO

Reuter -- Canadians hate walking so much that it even deters them from using buses and subways, according to a recent computer study into the travel habits of Toronto's two million residents.

The survey showed that dislike of walking, more than any other single factor, deterred people from using the public transportation system to go to work.

Their dislike is so great that commuters rate the distance to a subway station or a bus stop as twice as important as the time spent waiting for a train or bus.

And they rate the walking distance and time as six times more important than the fare when they weigh their decision on how to get to work.

The survey confirms what any casual observer can see during the morning and afternoon rush hours in the city.

Crowds of commuters, many of them young, pour out of the subway trains and will wait in line in a huge crush to use the escalators rather than climb up or down the empty staircases beside them.

One Toronto newspaper columnist recently defined a Canadian as a man who jockeyed for a close position in a car park outside a gymnasium.

The computer commuter analysis shows that "people will do anything to get out of walking even three or four extra feet," according to survey chief Professor D. N. Dewees of the University of Toronto.

The study showed that suburban stations must have areas where commuters can be dropped off from the family car -- Kiss-and-ride facilities, as they are known --because they have a great influence on people's willingness to use public commuter systems.

The $10,000 survey may force significant changes in two of the biggest projected extensions to Toronto's local transit system, since in both plans passengers would have been expected to walk much farther than they apparently are willing to do.

Plant Specimens Donated To A&M

Texas A&M University's Tracy Herbarium has been enriched by a shipment of more than 1,500 plant specimens from the collection of Dr. Jose de Jesus Jimenez of Santiago, Dominican Republic.

The specimens are a portion of a set of duplicates being given to A&M by the physician, whose herbarium holds the finest Dominican plant collection in existence.

Dr. Frank Gould of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station and the A&M Range Science Department, curator of the Tracy Herbarium, said Dr. Jimenez is widely recognized in the medical field and as the leading Dominican plant taxonomist.

"His herbarium is by far the most complete in the country and represents the fruits of nearly 30 years of collecting, organizing, studying, identifying and cataloging of Dominican plants. The collections of Dr. Jimenez are from all parts of the country and from all seasons of the year," Gould said.

Included are plants from the coastal plains, hills and valleys, and from rugged mountains 8,500 feet in elevation.

During his years of plant hunting, Dr. Jimenez has seen a vast amount of tropical forests disappear for agricultural use, and many of his early collections can never be repeated, Gould pointed out.

Wedding rings are placed on the third finger of the left hand because of an old Egyptian believe that a nerve ran from that finger to the heart.

SALT MONEY

The word salary comes from "salarium" meaning salt money, since Roman soldiers received part of their pay in salt.

Dedication Set For FB Building

Governor Dolph Briscoe will be the main speaker at dedication ceremonies June 13 for the Texas Farm Bureau's new $2.7 million headquarters building in Waco.

He will be introduced by Agriculture Commissioner John C. White. Waco Congressman W. R. (Bob) Poage, chairman of the U. S. House Agriculture Committee, will welcome the assemblage to Central Texas.

The dedication ceremonies will begin at 1:30 p.m. in front of the new building at 7420 Fish Pond Road in west Waco. An open house for the general public will be from 2:15 p.m. to 6 p.m.

A barbecue dinner at 6:30 that evening in the Waco Convention Center will climax the day's celebration. Some 4,000 persons, including Farm Bureau members and leaders and friends of agriculture, are expected for the affair. A nationally-known speaker, yet to be announced, will address the group.

Special events are planned for the dedication program which will open with a Marine Corps flag ceremony. Following the main address, soil samples from the 210 counties which have Farm Bureau organizations will be placed around a pecan tree which will be planted on the grounds.

Bull Escapes

The accident occurred about 9:30 a.m. Thursday five miles south of Cameron on Highway 36.

According to the driver, Dalton Dehart of Rt. Cameron, the bull was untied in the trailer and started jumping around, causing the trailer to swing on the road. The pickup went out of control and turned over, the trailer gate flew open and the bull escaped.

Driver of the pickup was not hurt.

Guitar Lessons At M H-B

Guitar lessons developed by Chet Atkins will be taught this summer at Mary Hardin-Baylor College by Dr. Robert Smith, chairman of the department of music, according to an announcement by Dr. Bobby E. Parker, president.

"We feel the addition of the Chet Atkins technique to our 'Summer of '73' music program will bring Central Texans the most well-rounded music education schedule in MH-B's history," said Dr. Parker.

The Chet Atkins guitar lessons are a non-credit, 1 week course for young people 15 to 21. Enrollment will be restricted to the first 35 applicants. Guitars will be furnished to students who don't own instruments, and $30 of the $50 course fee may be applied to the purchase of a guitar if the student so chooses.

The course has been scheduled on Monday and Thursday, from 10:20 a.m. to 11:50 a.m., in the Presser Fine Arts Building at MH-B. The first class will be held June 4, but registration deadline is June 1. Applicants or their parents should contact Dr. Smith, 939-5811.
